

Your Right to Receive a Good Faith Estimate

No Surprises Act notice for uninsured and self-pay patients

---

Under the law, health care providers need to give patients who do not have certain types of health care coverage, or who are not using certain types of coverage, an estimate of the bill for health care items and services before those items or services are provided.

You have the right to receive a Good Faith Estimate for the total expected cost of any non-emergency health care items or services. This includes related costs such as medical tests, prescription drugs, equipment, and hospital fees, when applicable.

Timing of your estimate

- If you schedule a health care item or service at least 3 business days in advance, make sure your provider or facility gives you a Good Faith Estimate in writing within 1 business day after scheduling.
- If you schedule a health care item or service at least 10 business days in advance, make sure your provider or facility gives you a Good Faith Estimate in writing within 3 business days after scheduling.
- You can also ask any provider or facility for a Good Faith Estimate before you schedule. If you do, make sure the estimate is given to you in writing within 3 business days after you ask.

If your bill is at least $400 more than your Good Faith Estimate from a provider or facility, you can dispute the bill.
